Notice.

The attention of the Public is drawn to Section XIX. of the Post Office Act, which directs that no Letter or Newspaper shall be despatched by Her Majesty's Mails or otherwise to any place beyond the Territories of the East India Company unless the full amount of Indian postage has been pre-paid by a Stamp or Stamps. If such letters are posted, they are to be treated as unclaimed letters. It must also be observed, that when, according to the instructions received from Her Majesty's Post Master General, pre-payment is ordered of the Steam postage on letters for despatch by Her Majesty's Contract Mail Steamers, such letters cannot be despatched unless the proper amount of Indian and British postage is pre-paid by Stamps.

The annexed Table gives full information regarding the rates of Steam postage and the places to which pre-payment is optional or otherwise; by attention to it, all risk of inconvenience will be obviated. It must be remembered that Post Masters have no discretion allowed them: they must act according to the Rules prescribed.

The 19th November 1854.

The following Act, passed by the Legislative Council, received the assent of the Most Noble the Governor General of India on the 11th of November 1854, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. XXVI. of 1854.

An Act for making better provision for the education of male minors subject to the superintendence of the Court of Wards.

WHEREAS the existing laws are found insufficient to ensure the proper education of male minors subject to the superintendence of the Court of Wards, and it is expedient to make further and better provision for the education of such persons, It is enacted as follows:—

I. The general superintendence and control of the education of every male minor, whose property has been or shall be brought under the management of the Collector of Revenue, in and for any part of the Presidency of Fort William, by virtue of any Act or Regulation which now is or hereafter shall be in force, is hereby vested in the Collector of Revenue, acting under the said Court of Wards, in the zillah or district wherein such minor's estate is situate; or if such minor is possessed of immovable property in different districts, in such one of the Collectors of Revenue of such districts as the said Court of Wards shall select.

II. It shall be lawful for every Collector of Revenue, in whom the superintendence of the education of any minor is vested by this Act, to direct that such minor shall reside, either with or without his guardian, at the sunder station of the district, or at any other place within the said Presidency, and shall attend for the purposes of education, such school or college as to the said Collector may seem expedient; and to make such provision as may be necessary for the proper care and suitable maintenance of the said minor whilst attending such school or college.

III. If it shall appear to the Collector inexpedient to place any such minor at a school or college, he shall, if the proceeds of the Estate are sufficient for that purpose, cause such minor to be educated by a private tutor, properly qualified, either at the family residence of such minor, or at the sunder station or elsewhere within the said Presidency; and in that case also the Collector shall have power to determine from time to time the place of residence of such minor, and to make such provision as may be necessary for his proper tuition and maintenance during the period of his education.

IV. All charges and expenses which may be incurred on account of any male minor ward under the provisions of this Act, for college or school fees or for other charges of tuition or education, or by reason of his residence in any place other than his own home or otherwise, shall be defrayed from the profits of his estate in the same manner as other expenses incurred under the authority or with the sanction of the Court of Wards.

V. It shall be lawful for the Court of Wards, on the application of a Collector, to remove from office, guardians for disobedience to orders passed by a Collector under this Act, or refuse to obey, or shall evade compliance with any orders passed, or directions given by such Collector under the provisions of this Act, and to cause a new guardian to be appointed in his place; whether the person so removed shall have been first invested with the guardianship of the minor upon the nomination of a Collector acting under the Court of Wards; or by a testamentary appointment confirmed by the Court of Wards, and if in any such case the guardian to be removed shall be also the manager of the minor's estate, it shall be lawful for the Court of Wards, at its discretion, either to remove him from both the said offices, or to continue him in that of Manager only.

VI. The guardian so removed shall, notwithstanding his removal, continue liable to account to the Collector for his receipts and disbursements during the period of his guardianship; and every guardian appointed in the place of a guardian so removed, shall be chosen in the same way, and shall have the same rights and powers, and be subject to the same responsibilities as persons originally appointed to be guardians of minors by a Collector of Revenue acting under the Court of Wards.

General Orders by the Most Noble the Governor General of India in Council.

Fort William, 15th November 1854.

No. 1136 of 1854.—The following Notification from the Foreign Department is published in General Orders:—

No. 4824, dated 15th November 1854.—The Most Noble the Governor General in Council has the highest satisfaction in publishing, for general information in India, the annexed copies of Despatches contained in the London Gazette Extraordinary and in the Moniteur, which announced the Victory gained by the Allied Forces over the Russian Troops on the Banks of the River Alma.

The Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that, in honor of this great Victory, a Royal Salute shall be fired at every principal Station of the Army in India.

By order of the Most Noble the Governor General in Council,

(Signed) G. F. EDMONSTON,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

Battle of the Alma.

War Department, October 8, 1854, 8½ o'clock, a. m.

MAJOR the Lord Burghersh arrived this morning with a Despatch from General the Lord Raglan, G. C. B., to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, of which the following is a copy:

*Head Quarters, Kutecha River,
September 23, 1854.*

MY LORD DUKE,

I HAVE the honour to inform your Grace, that the Allied Troops attacked the position occupied by the Russian Army, behind the Alma, on the 20th instant; and I have great satisfaction in adding, that they succeeded, in less than three hours, in driving the enemy from every part of the ground which they had held in the morning, and in establishing themselves upon it.

The English and French Armies moved out of their first encampment in the Crimea on the 19th, and bivouacked for the night on the left bank of the Bulganac, the former having previously supported the advance of a part of the Earl of Cardigan's brigade of Light Cavalry, which had the effect of inducing the enemy to move up a large body of Dragoons and Cosquies, with artillery.

On this, the first occasion of the English encountering the Russian force, it was impossible for any troops to exhibit more steadiness than did this portion of Her Majesty's cavalry.

It fell back upon its supports with the most perfect regularity under the fire of the Artillery, which was quickly silenced by that of the batteries I caused to be brought into action.

Our loss amounted to only four men wounded. Our day's march had been most wearisome and, in the burning sun, the absence of water, until we reached the insignificant but welcome stream the Bulganac, made it to be severely felt.

Both Armies moved towards the Alma the following morning, and it was arranged that Marshal St. Arnaud should assail the enemy's left by crossing the river at its junction with the sea, and immediately above it, and that the remainder of the French divisions should move up the heights in their front, whilst the English Army should attack the right and centre of the enemy's position.

In order that the gallantry exhibited by Her Majesty's troops, and the difficulties they had to meet may be fairly estimated, I deem it right, even at the risk of being considered tedious, to endeavour to make your Grace acquainted with the position the Russians had taken up.

It crossed the great road about 2½ miles from the sea, and is very strong by nature.

The bold and almost precipitous range of heights, of from 350 to 400 feet, that from the sea closely border the left bank of the river here ceases and formed their left, and turning thence round a great amphitheatre or wide valley, terminates at a salient pinnacle where their right rested, and whence the descent to the plain was more gradual.

The front was about two miles in extent.

Across the mouth of this great opening is a lower ridge at different heights, varying from 60 to 150 feet, parallel to the river, and at distances from it of from 600 to 800 yards.

The river itself is generally fordable for troops, but its banks are extremely rugged, and in most parts steep; the willows along it had been cut down, in order to prevent them from affording cover to the attacking party, and in fact everything had been done to deprive an assailant of any species of shelter.

In front of the position on the right bank, at about 200 yards from the Alma, is the village of Bouliouk, and near it a timber bridge, which had been partly destroyed by the enemy.

The high pinnacle and ridge before alluded to was the key of the position, and consequently there the greatest preparations had been made for defence.

Halfway down the height, and across its front, was a trench of the extent of some hundred yards, to afford cover against an advance up the even steep slope of the hill. On the right, and a little retired, was a powerful covered battery, armed with heavy guns, which flanked the whole of the right of the position.

Artillery, at the same time, was posted at the points that best commanded the passage of the river and its approaches generally.

On the slopes of these hills (forming a sort of table land) were placed dense masses of the enemy's infantry, whilst on the heights above was his great reserve, the whole amounting, it is supposed, to between 45,000 and 50,000 men.

The combined Armies advanced on the same alignment, Her Majesty's troops in contiguous double columns, with the front of two divisions covered by light infantry and a troop of horse artillery, the 2nd Division, under Lieutenant-General Sir De Lacy Evans, forming the right, and touching the left of the 3rd Division of the French Army, under His Imperial Highness Prince Napoleon, and the Light Division, under Lieutenant-General Sir George Brown, the left; the first being supported by the 3rd Division, under Lieutenant-General Sir Richard England, and the last by the 1st Division, commanded by Lieutenant-General His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge.

The 4th Division, under Lieutenant-General Sir George Cathcart, and the clvii under Major-General the Earl of Lucan, were held in reserve to protect the left flank and rear against large bodies of the enemy's cavalry, which had been seen in those directions.

On approaching to near the fire of the guns, which soon became extremely formidable, the two leading divisions deployed into line, and advanced to attack the front, and the supporting divisions followed the movement. Hardly had this taken place, when the village of Bouliouk, immediately opposite the centre, was fired by the enemy at all points, creating a continuous blaze for three hundred yards, obscuring their position and rendering a passage through it impracticable. Two regiments of Brigadier-General Adams' brigade, part of Sir De Lacy Evans' division, had, in consequence, to pass the river at a deep and difficult ford to the right under a sharp fire, whilst his first brigade, under Major-General Pennefather, and the remaining regiment of Brigadier-General Adams crossed to the left of the conflagration, opposed by the enemy's artillery from the heights above, and pressed on towards the left of their position with the utmost gallantry and steadiness.

In the meanwhile, the Light Division, under Sir George Brown, effected the passage of the Alian in his immediate front. The banks of the river itself were, from their rugged and broken nature, most serious obstacles, and the vineyards, through which the enemy had felled, created additional impediments, rendering every species of formation, under a galling fire, nearly an impossibility. Lieutenant-General Sir George Brown advanced against the enemy under great disadvantages.

In this difficult operation he nevertheless persevered, and the 1st Brigade, under Major-General Codrington, succeeded in carrying a redoubt, materially aided by the judicious and steady manner in which Brigadier-General Buller moved on the left flank, and by the advance of four companies of the Rifle Brigade, under Major Noreott, who promises to be a distinguished officer of light troops.

The heavy fire of grape and musketry, however, to which the troops were exposed, and the losses consequently sustained by the 7th, 23rd, and 33rd Regiments, obliged this brigade partially to relinquish its hold.

By this time, however, the Duke of Cambridge had succeeded in crossing the river, and had moved up in support, and a brilliant advance of the brigade of Foot Guards, under Major-General Bentinck, drove the enemy back, and secured the final possession of the work.

The Highland Brigade, under Major-General Sir Colin Campbell, advanced in admirable order and steadiness up the high ground to the left, and in co-operation with the Guards; and Major-General Pennefather's Brigade, which had been connected with the right of the Light Division, forced the enemy completely to abandon the position they had taken, such pains to defend and secure.

The 95th Regiment, immediately on the right of the Royal Fusiliers in the advance, suffered equally with that corps an immense loss.

The aid of the Royal Artillery in all these operations was most effectual. The exertions of the field officers and the Captains of troops and batteries to get the guns into action were unceasing, and the precision of their fire materially contributed to the great results of the day.

Lieutenant-General Sir Richard England brought his division to the immediate support of the troops in advance, and Lieutenant-General the Honorable Sir George Cathcart was actively engaged in watching the left flank.

The nature of the ground did not admit of the employment of the cavalry under the Earl of Lucan; but they succeeded in taking some prisoners at the close of the battle.

In the detail of these operations, which I have gone into as far as the space of a despatch would allow, your Grace will perceive, that the services which the General and other Officers of the Army were engaged were of no ordinary character; and I have great pleasure in submitting them for your Grace's most favourable consideration.

The mode in which Lieutenant-General Sir George Brown conducted his division, under the most trying circumstances, demands the expression of my warmest approbation. The fire to which his division was subjected, and the difficulties he had to contend against, afford no small proof that his best energies were applied to the successful discharge of his duty.

I must speak, in corresponding terms of Lieutenant-General Sir De Lacy Evans, who likewise conducted his division to my perfect satisfaction, and exhibited equal coolness and judgment in carrying out a most difficult operation.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge brought his division into action in support of the Light Division with great ability, and had, for the first time an opportunity of showing the enemy his devotion to Her Majesty and to the profession of which he is so distinguished a member.

My best thanks are due to Lieutenant-General Sir R. England, Lieutenant-General the Honorable Sir George Cathcart, and Lieutenant-General the Earl of Lucan, for their cordial assistance wherever it could be afforded, and I feel it my duty especially to recommend to your Grace's notice the distinguished conduct of Major-General Bentinck, Major-General Sir Colin Campbell, Major-General Pennefather, Major-General Codrington, Brigadier-General Adams, and Brigadier-General Buller.

In the affair of the previous day, Major-General the Earl of Cardigan exhibited the most spirit and coolness, and kept his brigade under perfect command.

The manner in which Brigadier-General Strange directed the Artillery, and exerted himself to bring it forward, met my entire satisfaction.

Lieutenant-General Sir John Burgoyne was constantly by my side, and rendered me, by his counsel and advice, the most valuable assistance; and the Commanding Royal Engineer, Brigadier-General Tylden, was always at hand to carry out any service I might direct him to undertake.

I deeply regret to say that he has since fallen a victim to cholera, as has Major Wellesley, who was present in the affair of the previous day, notwithstanding that he was then suffering from serious illness. He had, during the illness of Major-General Lord de Ros, acted for him in the most efficient manner. I cannot speak too highly of Brigadier-General Estcourt, Adjutant-General or of Brigadier-General Aiery, who, in the time he has conducted the duties of the Master-General, has displayed the greatest energy as well as aptitude for the office.

I am much indebted to my Military Secretary, Lieutenant-Colonel Steele, Major Lord Burghersh, and the Officers of my personal Staff, for the zeal, intelligence, and gallantry they all, without exception, displayed.

Lieutenant Derriman, R.N., the Commander of the Caradoc, accompanied me during the whole of the operation, and rendered me an essential service, by a close observation of the enemy's movements, which his practised eye enabled him accurately to watch.

I lament to say that Lieutenant-Colonel Lagardie, who was attached to my head-quarters by the Emperor of the French, fell into the enemy's hands on the 19th, on his return from Prince Napoleon's division, where he had obligingly gone at my request, with a communication to his Imperial Highness.

This misfortune is deeply regretted, both by myself and the officers of my personal staff.

The other officer placed with me under similar circumstances, Major Vico, afforded me all the assistance in his power, sparing no exertion to be of use.

I cannot omit to make known to your Grace the cheerfulness with which the regimental officers of the Army have submitted to most unusual privations.

My anxiety to bring into the country every cavalry and infantry soldier who was available, prevented me from embarking their baggage animals, and these officers have with them at this moment nothing but what they can carry, and they, equally with the men, are without tents or covering of any kind.

I have not heard a single murmur. All seem impressed with the necessity of the arrangement; and they feel, I trust, satisfied that I shall bring up their bat-horses at the earliest moment.

The conduct of the troops has been admirable. When it is considered that they have suffered severely from sickness during the last two months; that, since they landed in the Crimea, they have been exposed to the extremes of wet, cold, and heat; that the daily toil to provide themselves with water has been excessive, and that they have been pursued by cholera to the very battle-field, I do not go beyond the truth in declaring that they merit the highest commendation.

In the ardour of attack they forgot all they had endured, and displayed that high courage, that gallant spirit, for which the British soldier is ever distinguished; and under the heaviest fire they maintained the same determination to conquer, as they had exhibited before they went into action. I should be wanting in my duty, my Lord Duke, if I did not express to your Grace, in the most earnest manner, my deep feeling of gratitude to the officers and men of the Royal Navy for the invaluable assistance they afforded the Army upon this, as on every occasion where it could be brought to bear upon our operations.

They watched the progress of the day with the most intense anxiety; and as the best way of evincing their participation in our success, and their sympathy in the sufferings of the wounded, they never ceased, from the close of the battle till we left the ground this morning, to provide for the sick and wounded, and to carry them down to the beach, a labour in which some of the Officers even volunteered to participate, an act which I shall never cease to recollect with the warmest thankfulness.

I mention no names, fearing I might omit some who ought to be spoken of; but none who were associated with us, spared any exertion they could apply to so sacred a duty.

Sir Edmond Lyons, who had charge of the whole, was, as always, most prominent in rendering assistance, and providing for emergencies.

I enclose the return of killed and wounded. It is, I lament to say, very large; but I hope, all circumstances considered, that it will be felt that no life was unnecessarily exposed, and that such an advantage could not be achieved without a considerable sacrifice.

I cannot venture to estimate the amount of the Russian loss. I believe it to have been great, and such is the report in the country.

The number of prisoners who are not hurt is small; but the wounded amount to 800 or 900. Two General Officers, Major Generals Karganoff and Shokanoff fell into our hands. The former is very badly wounded.

I will not attempt to describe the movements of the French Army; that will be done by an abler hand; but it is due to them to say that their operations were eminently successful, and that under the guidance of their distinguished commander, Marshal St. Arnaud, they manifested the utmost gallantry, the greatest ardour for the attack, and the high military qualities for which they are so famed.

This despatch will be delivered to your Grace by Major Lord Burghersh, who is capable of affording you the fullest information, and whom, I beg to recommend to your especial notice.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

P. S.—I enclose a sketch of the field of battle.
His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,

GENERAL ORDER—No. 1.

THE Commander of the Forces congratulates the troops on the brilliant success that attended their unrivalled efforts in the Battle of the 20th instant, on which occasion they carried a most formidable position, defended by large masses of Russian Infantry and a most powerful and numerous Artillery.

Their conduct was in unison with that of our gallant Allies, whose spirited and successful attack of the left of the heights occupied by the enemy cannot fail to have attracted their notice and admiration.

The Commander of the Forces thanks the Army most warmly for its gallant exertions. He witnessed them with pride and satisfaction, and it will be his pleasing duty to report, for the Queen's information, how well they have earned Her Majesty's approbation, and how gloriously maintained the honour of the British name!

Lord Raglan condoles most sincerely with the troops on the loss of so many gallant officers and brave men, whose memory it will be a consolation to their friends to feel, will ever be cherished in the annals of our Army.

War Department, October 8, 1854, 8½ o'clock, a.m.

THE Duke of Newcastle has received private letters from Lord Raglan, expressing his great regret that the harassing duties imposed upon the troops, by the operations after the Battle of Alma, had prevented the nominal returns of the killed and wounded of the non-commissioned officers and privates being made out in the different regiments in time to be sent with the Despatches now published.

The Duke of Newcastle expects them by an early mail, and they shall be published the moment they are received.

Admiralty, October 8, 1854.

THE Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty have this day received Despatches from Vice-Admiral Dundas, containing intelligence as to the proceedings of Her Majesty's Fleet in the Black Sea, of which the following are copies:

ATTACK OF THE RUSSIAN ENTRENCHEMENTS ON THE ALMA BY THE ALLIED ARMIES.

No. 485. Britannia, off the Alma, Sin, September 21, 1854.

In my letter of the 18th instant (No. 480,) I reported to you, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that the Allied Armies were ready to move, and I now beg you will acquaint their Lordships that, on the morning of the 19th, they marched to a position about two miles north of the Alma River, where they halted for the night ; the French and Turks on the right, close to the sea, and the English to the left, about four miles inland.

The Russians, with some 5,000 or 6,000 cavalry and artillery, and 15,000 infantry, made a demonstration north of the river, but returned on the approach of the armies, and re-crossed the river at sunset.

About noon, on the 20th, the Allies advanced in the same order to force the Russian position and entrenchments south of the Alma. This was effected by 4 o'clock, the Russians retreating apparently to the eastward of the main road to Sebastopol.

The Russians left fell back before the French very rapidly, and their batteries on the right were carried by the bayonet by the English.

Our loss has necessarily been severe, and is estimated at about 1,200 killed and wounded ; that of the French about 900.

The Russian loss has also been great, two general officers and 3 guns were captured by our men, but we have few prisoners beyond the wounded, in consequence it is believed of our deficiency of cavalry.

Lieutenant Derriman, of the Caradoc, accompanied the Staff of General Lord Raglan during the action, and I also sent Lieutenant Glynn of this ship to convey any message to me from his lordship.

All the medical officers of the fleet (excepting one in each ship,) 600 seamen and marines, and all the boats have been assisting the wounded, and conveying them to the transports, that will sail for the Hospitius as soon as possible.

I believe it is the intention of the Allied Forces to move to-morrow, and the Sampson, which I detached last night with the Terrible off Sebastopol, has signalled that the Russians were retreating on Sebastopol, and that they have burnt the villages on the Katacha.

I have, &c.,

Movements of the Fleets and Armies.

No. 487. Britannia, off the Katacha,
Sir, September 28, 1854.

I beg you will inform the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that since my letter to you of the 21st instant (No. 485,) the men and boats of the fleet have been employed in bringing from the field (about four miles distant,) and carrying on board the transports, the English and Russian officers and men wounded in the battle of the Alma, as well as the sick of the Army.

2. All the medical officers of the different ships have been zealously and usefully occupied in attending them, and I have been obliged to send several assistant-surgeons in the vessels with the wounded to Constantinople.

3. The Vulcan and Andes, with 800 wounded and sick, sailed for Constantinople yesterday, and to-day the Orion and Colombo, with 900, including some sixty or seventy Russians, will follow.

Another vessel (by the request of Lord Raglan,) with about 500 wounded Russians, will also proceed, under charge of the Fury, to land them at Odessa.

4. On the night of the 21st instant, the Russians made a very great alteration in the position of their fleet in Sebastopol. I enclose a report made by Captain Jones, of the Sampson; and I propose attacking the outer line in the first favourable opportunity.

5. Captain Jones also reports that great exertions appear to be making to strengthen the land defences, as well as those by sea,

New batteries on both sides of the port have been erected, defending the entrances and line of coast. One, to the North, has heavy guns, of a range of 4,000 yards, two shots having passed over the Sampson when nearly at that distance.

6. Provisions for the Army have been landed ; and the Forces move on to-day towards Sebastopol, accompanied by the Fleets, which have anchored off the Katscha.

I have, &c.,

Vice-Admiral.

SINKING OF THE RUSSIAN SHIPS AT THE ENTRANCE OF THE HARBOUR OF SEBASTOPOL.

No. 489.

Britannia, off the Katscha,

Sir,

September 24, 1854.

In my letter of yesterday, No. 487, I reported the extraordinary change that had taken place in the position hitherto maintained by the enemy's fleet in the Harbour of Sebastopol, and I now beg you will acquaint the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that the same afternoon, on the appearance of the Allied Fleets in sight of Sebastopol, the whole of the vessels moored across the harbour were sunk by the Russians, leaving their masts more or less above water, and I went last evening to the mouth of the harbour to assure myself of this singular event.

Captain Drummond has examined the harbour this morning, and reports that the lower mast heads of the ships are generally above water; that the passage is closed, except perhaps a small space near the shoal off the North Battery, and the double booms inside are thus rendered more secure.

Eight sail of the line are moored east and west, inside of the booms, and three of the ships are heeled over to give their guns more elevation to sweep over the land to the northward.

2. An intelligent seaman, a deserter, who escaped from Sebastopol on the 22nd, had partly prepared me for some extraordinary movement. He had informed me that the crews of the ships moored across the harbour (to one of which he had been attached) had been landed, with the exception of a very few in each ship; that the vessels were plugged ready for sinking; that the guns and stores were all on board; and that the other ships were moored under the south side to defend the harbour from attack from the northward. He reported that the Battle of Alma had greatly dispirited the Russians; that the troops had retreated on Sebastopol without a halt; that he believes the whole Russian force not to exceed 40,000. The man's statements were clear, and at points that came under his own observation were mostly corroborated, and I consider reliance may be placed on his information generally, considering the means his station in life afforded of enabling him to obtain it. At the request of Lord Raglan I have sent him on shore to act as a guide to the Army on their approach to the environs of Sebastopol.

3. The Allied Armies moved this afternoon to take up a position to the south of the port of Sebastopol, and the fleet will move so as to meet their arrival there.

I have, &c.,

Vice-Admiral.

THE FRENCH DESPATCHES.

PARIS, Saturday, Oct. 7, 6 P. M.

"The Emperor has received from Marshal St. Mand the following report of the Battle of the Alma. No one can read, without emotion this simple recital of a great victory, where the General-in-Chief speaks of every one except himself. Nevertheless, the Government appreciates as they merit the energy and ability displayed by the Marshal under these circumstances. The Emperor has decided that a salute of 21 guns shall be fired to celebrate this victory:—

" Field of Battle of Alma, Sept. 21.

" SIRE.—The cannon of your Majesty has spoken; we have gained a complete victory. It is a glorious day, Sire, to add to the military annals of France, and your Majesty will have one name more to add to the victories which adorn the flags of the French Army.

" The Russians had yesterday assembled all their forces, and collected all their means, in order to oppose the passage of the Alma. Prince Menschikoff commanded in person. All the heights were crowned with redoubts and formidable batteries. The Russian Army reckoned 40,000 bayonets, from all points of the Crimea; in the morning there arrived from Theodosia 900 cavalry and 180 pieces of heavy and field artillery. From the heights which they occupied, the Russians could count our men man by man from the 19th to the moment when we arrived on the Bubhanchi. On the 20th, from 6 o'clock in the morning, I carried into operation, with the division of General Bosquet, reinforced by eight Turkish battalions, a movement which turned the left of the Russians and some of their batteries. General Bosquet maneuvered with as much intelligence as bravery. This movement decided the success of the day. I had arranged that the English should extend their left, in order at the same time to threaten the right of the Russians while I should occupy them in the centre, but their troops did not arrive in line until half-past 10. They bravely made up for this delay. At half-past 12 the line of the Allied Army, occupying an extent of more than a league, arrived on the Alma, and was received by a terrible fire from the Tirailleurs.

" In this movement the head of the column of General Bosquet appeared on the heights, and I gave the signal for a general attack. The Alma was crossed at double-quick time. Prince Napoleon, at the head of his division, took possession of the large village of Alma, under the fire of the Russian batteries. The Prince showed himself worthy of the great name he bears. We then arrived at the foot of the heights, under the fire of the Russian batteries. There, Sire, commenced a real battle along all the line—a battle with its episodes of brilliant feats of valour. Your Majesty may be proud of your soldiers; they have not degenerated; they are the soldiers of Austerlitz and of Jena. At half-past 4 the French army was everywhere victorious. All the positions had been carried at the point of the bayonet to the cry of 'Vive l'Empereur,' which resounded throughout the day. Never was such enthusiasm seen; even the wounded rose from the ground to join in it. On our left the English met with large masses of the enemy and with great difficulties, but everything was surmounted. The English attacked the Russian positions in admirable order under the fire of their cannon, carried them, and drove off the Russians. The bravery of Lord Raglan rivals that of antiquity. In the midst of cannon and musket shot he displayed a calmness which never left him. The French lines formed on the heights and the artillery opened its fire. Then it was no longer a retreat, but a rout; the Russians threw away their muskets and knapsacks in order to run the faster. If, Sire, I had had cavalry, I should have obtained immense results, and Menschikoff would no longer have had an army; but it was late, our troops were harassed, and the ammunition of the artillery was exhausted. At 6 o'clock in the evening we encamped on the very bivouac of the Russians. My tent is on the very spot where that of Prince Menschikoff stood in the morning, and who thought himself so sure of beating us that he left his carriage there. I have taken possession of it, with his pocket-book and correspondence, and shall take advantage of the valuable information it contains. The Russian Army will probably be able to rally two leagues from this, and I shall find it to-morrow on the Katscha, but beaten and demoralized, while the allied army is full of ardour and enthusiasm. I have been compelled to remain here in order to send our wounded and those of the Russians to Constantinople, and to procure ammunition and provisions from the fleet. The English have had 1,500 men put hors de combat. The Duke of Cambridge is well; his division and that of Sir G. Brown were superb. I have to regret about 1,200 men hors de combat, 3 officers killed, 54 wounded, 263 sub-officers and soldiers killed, and 1,033 wounded. General Canrobert, to whom is due in part the honour of the day, was slightly wounded by the splinter of a shell which struck him in the breast and hand, but he is doing very well. General Thomas, of the division of the Prince, is seriously wounded by a ball in the abdomen. The Russians have lost about 5,000 men. The field of battle is covered with their dead, and our field hospitals are full of their wounded. We have counted a proportion of seven Russian dead bodies for one French. The Russian artillery caused us loss, but ours is very superior to theirs. I shall all my life regret not having had with me my two regiments of African Chasseurs. The Zouaves were the admiration of both armies; they are the first soldiers in the world.

"Accept, Sire, the homage of my profound respect and of my entire devotedness."

"MARSHAL A. DE ST. ARNAUD."

"ORDER OF THE DAY OF MARSHAL DE ST. ARNAUD."

"SOLDIERS,—France and the Emperor will be satisfied with you. At Alma you have proved to the Russians that you are the worthy descendants of the conquerors of Eylau and of the Moekowa. You have rivalled in courage your allies the English, and your bayonets have carried formidable and well-defended positions. Soldiers, you will again meet the Russians on your road, and you will conquer them as you have done to-day to the cry of 'Vive l'Empereur!' and you will only stop at Sebastopol; it is there you will enjoy the repose which you will have well deserved."

"THE FRENCH CHARGE D'AFFAIRES AT CONSTANTINOPLE TO THE MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS."

"Therapia, Sept. 27."

"Demoralized by the courage of the allied troops, the Russians, who have had 8,000 men killed on the Alma, neither stopped on the Kats-cha nor on the Belbeck, which were formidable positions. They have entered Sebastopol, the entrance of which they have blocked up by sinking three of their line-of-battle ships and two frigates. On the 25th the allied armies were in march to take up a position before the town. The English had 1,800 men put hors de combat at Alma. An aide-de-camp of Lord Raglan proceeds to Paris and London, the bearer of despatches from the Commanders-in-Chief."

NORTHERN LIGHT-HOUSEES.Notice to Mariners.*WHALSEY SKERRIES, SHETLAND—TEMPORARY LIGHT-HOUSE.

THE Commissioners of Northern Light-houses hereby give Notice that they are at present engaged in erecting a Light-house on the Outer Skerries of Whalsey, on the Eastern Coast of the Shetland Isles, and that until the completion of the permanent Light-house, a Light will be shown from a temporary Tower, and will be exhibited for the first time on the night of Friday the 15th September, and every night thereafter, from the going away of day-light in the evening, till the return of day-light in the morning.

The following is a Specification of the Light-house, and the Appearance of the Light, by MR. DAVID STEVENSON, Engineer to the Commissioners:

The Light-house is situated on the Eastern part of the Island of Gruna, in N. Lat. $60^{\circ} 25' 24''$, and W. Long. $0^{\circ} 44' 20''$, the Bound Skerry of Whalsey bearing from the Light-house about E. by compass. The outer or seaward extremity of the Bound Skerry is about half a mile or thereby from the site of the Light-house, so that Vessels in rounding the Light must give it a wide berth.

The Whalsey Light will be known to Mariners as a Revolving Light, which shows a bright White Light once in every minute.

The temporary Light will be exhibited from a Tower of Timber Frame Work, and is elevated about 108 feet above the level of high-water of ordinary spring-tides, and may be seen at the distance of about 16 nautical miles, and at lesser distances according to the state of the atmosphere. To a near observer, in favourable circumstances, the Light will not wholly disappear between the intervals of greatest brightness.

The Commissioners further give notice, that by Order in Council, dated the 3rd day of July last, the following Tolls are authorized to be levied in respect of the said Light-house, viz:

For every Vessel belonging to the United Kingdom (the same not belonging to Her Majesty, her heirs or successors, nor being navigated wholly in ballast,) and for every Foreign Vessel privileged to enter the Ports of the United Kingdom upon paying the same Duties of Tonnage as are payable by British Vessels which may pass or derive benefit from the Light, the Toll of Two-Sixteenths of a Penny per Ton of the burthen of every such Vessel for every time of passing or deriving benefit therefrom, if on a Coasting Voyage.

For each time of passing or deriving benefit on an Oversea Voyage, One Penny per Ton for every such Vessel.

For every Foreign Vessel not navigated wholly in ballast, and not privileged in manner before specified, double the respective Tolls above mentioned.

Which Tolls are liable to the following abatements on payment:—for a Coasting Voyage, Ten per cent; for an Oversea Voyage, Twenty-five per cent.

FORT WILLIAM,

Foreign Department.

THE 15TH NOVEMBER 1854.

THE MOST NOBLE the Governor General in Council has the highest satisfaction in publishing, for general information in India, the annexed copies of Despatches contained in the London Gazette Extraordinary and in the Moniteur, which announced the Victory gained by the Allied Forces over the Russian Troops on the Banks of the River Alma.

The Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that, in honor of this great Victory, a Royal Salute shall be fired at every principal Station of the Army in India.

By order of the Most Noble the Governor General in Council,

G. F. EDMONSTONE,

Secty. to the Govt. of India.

Battle of the Alma.

War Department, October 8, 1854, 8½ o'clock, a.m.

MAJOR the Lord Burghersh arrived this morning with a Despatch from General the Lord Raglan, G.C.B., to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, of which the following is a copy :

Head Quarters, Katscha River,
September 23, 1854.

MY LORD DUKE,

I HAVE the honour to inform your Grace, that the Allied Troops attacked the position occupied by the Russian Army, beyond the Alma, on the 20th instant; and I have great satisfaction in adding, that they succeeded, in less than three hours, in driving the enemy from every part of the ground which they had held in the morning, and in establishing themselves upon it.

The English and French Armies moved out of their first encampment in the Crimea on the 19th, and bivouacked for the night on the left bank of the Bulganac, the former having previously supported the advance of a part of the Earl of Cardigan's brigade of Light Cavalry, which had the effect of inducing the enemy to move up a large body of Dragoons and Cossacs, with artillery.

On this, the first occasion of the English encountering the Russian force, it was impossible for any troops to exhibit more steadiness than did this portion of Her Majesty's cavalry.

It fell back upon its supports with the most perfect regularity under the fire of the Artillery, which was quickly silenced by that of the batteries I caused to be brought into action.

Our loss amounted to only four men wounded.

The day's march had been most wearisome and, under a burning sun, the absence of water, until we reached the insignificant but welcome stream of the Bulganac, made it to be severely felt.

Both Armies moved towards the Alma the following morning, and it was arranged that Marshal St. Arnaud should assail the enemy's left by crossing the river at its junction with the sea, and immediately above it, and that the remainder of the French divisions should move up the heights in their front, whilst the English Army should attack the right and centre of the enemy's position.

In order that the gallantry exhibited by Her Majesty's troops, and the difficulties they had to meet may be fairly estimated, I deem it right, even at the risk of being considered tedious, to endeavour to make your Grace acquainted with the position the Russians had taken up.

It crossed the great road about $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the sea, and is very strong by nature.

The bold and almost precipitous range of heights, of from 350 to 400 feet, that from the sea closely border the left bank of the river here ceases and forged their left, and turning thence round a great amphitheatre or wide valley, terminates at a salient pinnacle where their right rested, and whence the descent to the plain was more gradual.

The front was about two miles in extent.

Across the mouth of this great opening is a lower ridge at different heights, varying from 60 to 150 feet, parallel to the river, and at distances from it of from 600 to 800 yards.

The river itself is generally fordable for troops, but its banks are extremely rugged, and in most parts steep; the willows along it had been cut down, in order to prevent them from affording cover to the attacking party, and in fact everything had been done to deprive an assailant of any species of shelter.

In front of the position on the right bank, at about 200 yards from the Alma, is the village of Bouliouk, and near it a timber bridge, which had been partly destroyed by the enemy.

The high pinnacle and ridge before alluded to was the key of the position, and consequently there the greatest preparations had been made for defence.

Halfway down the height, and across its front, was a trench of the extent of some hundred yards, to afford cover against an advance up the even steep slope of the hill. On the right, and a little retired, was a powerful covered battery, armed with heavy guns, which flanked the whole of the right of the position.

Artillery, at the same time, was posted at the points that best commanded the passage of the river and its approaches generally.

On the slopes of these hills (forming a sort of table land) were placed dense masses of the enemy's infantry, whilst on the heights above was his great reserve, the whole amounting, it is supposed, to between 45,000 and 50,000 men.

The combined Armies advanced on the same alignment, Her Majesty's troops in contiguous double columns, with the front of two divisions covered by light infantry and a troop of horse artillery, the 2nd Division, under Lieutenant-General Sir De Lacy Evans, forming the right, and touching the left of the 3rd Division of the French Army, under His Imperial Highness Prince Napoleon, and the Light Division, under Lieutenant-General Sir George Brown, the left; the first being supported by the 3rd Division, under Lieutenant-General Sir Richard England, and the last by the 1st Division, commanded by Lieutenant-General His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge.

The 4th Division, under Lieutenant-General Sir George Cathcart, and the cavalry under Major-General the Earl of Lucan, were held in reserve to protect the left flank and rear against large bodies of the enemy's cavalry, which had been seen in those directions.

On approaching to near the fire of the guns, which soon became extremely formidable, the two leading divisions deployed into line, and advanced to attack the front, and the supporting divisions followed the movement. Hardly had this taken place, when the village of Bouliouk, immediately opposite the centre, was fired by the enemy at all points, creating a continuous blaze for three hundred yards, obscuring their position and rendering a passage through it impracticable. Two regiments of Brigadier-General Adams' brigade, part of Sir De Lacy Evans' division, had, in consequence, to pass the river at a deep and difficult ford to the right under a sharp fire, whilst his first brigade, under Major-General Pennefather, and the remaining regiment of Brigadier-General Adams crossed to the left of the conflagration, opposed by the enemy's artillery from the heights above, and pressed on towards the left of their position, with the utmost gallantry and steadiness.

In the meanwhile, the Light Division, under Sir George Brown, effected the passage of the Alma in his immediate front. The banks of the river itself were, from their rugged and broken nature, most serious obstacles, and the vineyards, through which the troops had to pass, and the trees which the enemy had felled, created additional impediments, rendering every species of formation, under a galling fire, nearly an impossibility. Lieutenant-General Sir George Brown advanced against the enemy under great disadvantages.

In this difficult operation he nevertheless persevered, and the 1st Brigade, under Major-General Codrington, succeeded in carrying a redoubt, materially aided by the judicious and steady manner in which Brigadier-General Buller moved on the left flank, and by the advance of four companies of the Rifle Brigade, under Major Norell, who promises to be a distinguished officer of light troops.

The heavy fire of grape and musketry, however, to which the troops were exposed, and the losses consequently sustained by the 7th, 23rd, and 33rd Regiments, obliged this brigade partially to relinquish its hold.

By this time, however, the Duke of Cambridge had succeeded in crossing the river, and had moved up in support, and a brilliant advance of the brigade of Foot Guards, under Major-General Bentinck, drove the enemy back, and secured the final possession of the work.

The Highland Brigade, under Major-General Sir Colin Campbell, advanced in admirable order and steadiness up the high ground to the left, and in co-operation with the Guards; and Major-General Pennefather's Brigade, which had been connected with the right of the Light Division forced the enemy completely to abandon the position they had taken such pains to defend and secure.

The 95th Regiment, immediately on the right of the Royal Fusiliers in the advance, suffered equally with that corps an immense loss.

The aid of the Royal Artillery in all these operations was most effectual. The exertions of the field officers and the Captains of troops and batteries to get the guns into action were unceasing, and the precision of their fire materially contributed to the great results of the day.

Lieutenant-General Sir Richard England brought his division to the immediate support of the troops in advance, and Lieutenant-General the Honorable Sir George Cathcart was actively engaged in watching the left flank.

The nature of the ground did not admit of the employment of the cavalry under the Earl of Lucan ; but they succeeded in taking some prisoners at the close of the battle.

In the detail of these operations, which I have gone into as far as the space of a despatch would allow, your Grace will perceive, that the services in which the General and other Officers of the Army were engaged were of no ordinary character ; and I have great pleasure in submitting them for your Grace's most favourable consideration.

The mode in which Lieutenant-General Sir George Brown conducted his division, under the most trying circumstances, demands the expression of my warmest approbation. The fire to which his division was subjected, and the difficulties he had to contend against, afford no small proof that his best energies were applied to the successful discharge of his duty.

I must speak in corresponding terms of Lieutenant-General Sir De Lacy Evans, who likewise conducted his division to my perfect satisfaction and exhibited equal coolness and judgment in carrying out a most difficult operation.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge brought his division into action in support of the Light Division with great ability, and had for the first time an opportunity of showing the enemy his devotion to Her Majesty and to the profession of which he is so distinguished a member.

My best thanks are due to Lieutenant-General Sir R. England, Lieutenant-General the Honorable Sir George Cathcart, and Lieutenant-General the Earl of Lucan, for their cordial assistance, wherever it could be afforded, and I feel it my duty especially to recommend to your Grace's notice the distinguished conduct of Major-General Bentinck, Major-General Sir Colin Campbell, Major-General Ponsonby, Major-General Codrington, Brigadier-General Adams, and Brigadier-General Buller.

In the affair of the previous day, Major-General the Earl of Cardigan exhibited the utmost spirit and coolness, and kept his brigade under perfect command.

The manner in which Brigadier-General Strangway directed the artillery, and exerted himself to bring it forward, met my entire satisfaction.

Lieutenant-General Sir John Burgoyne was constantly by my side, and rendered me, by his counsel and advice, the most valuable assistance ; and the Commanding Royal Engineer, Brigadier-General Tylden, was always at hand to carry out any service I might direct him to undertake.

I deeply regret to say that he has since fallen a victim to cholera, as has Major Wellesley, who was present in the affair of the previous day, notwithstanding that he was then suffering from serious illness. He had, during the illness of Major-General Lord de Ros, acted for him in the most efficient manner. I cannot speak too highly of Brigadier-General Esteouri, Adjutant-General, or of Brigadier-General Ayre, who, in the short time he has conducted the duties of the Quartermaster-General, has displayed the greatest ability, as well as aptitude for the office.

I am much indebted to my Military Secretary, Lieutenant-Colonel Steele, Major Lord Burghersh, and the officers of my personal Staff, for the zeal, intelligence, and gallantry, they all, without exception, displayed.

Lieutenant Derriman, R.N., the Commander of the Caradoc, accompanied me during the whole of the operation, and rendered me an essential service, by a close observation of the enemy's movements, which his practised eye enabled him accurately to watch.

I lament to say that Lieutenant-Colonel Legrande, who was attached to my head-quarters by the Emperor of the French, fell into the enemy's hands on the 19th, on his return from Prince Napoleon's division, where he had obligingly gone at my request, with a communication to his Imperial Highness.

This misfortune is deeply regretted, both by myself and the officers of my personal staff.

The other officer placed with me under similar circumstances, Major Vico, afforded me all the assistance in his power, sparing no exertion to be of use.

I cannot omit to make known to your Grace the cheerfulness with which the regimental officers of the Army have submitted to most unusual privations.

My anxiety to bring into the country every cavalry and infantry soldier who was available, prevented me from embarking their baggage animals, and these officers have with them at this moment nothing but what they can carry, and they, equally with the men, are without tents or covering of any kind.

I have not heard a single murmur. All seem impressed with the necessity of the arrangement ; and they feel, I trust, satisfied that I shall bring up their best horses at the earliest moment.

The conduct of the troops has been admirable. When it is considered that they have suffered severely from sickness during the last two months ; that, since they landed in the Crimea, they have been exposed to the extremes of wet, cold, and heat ; that the daily toil to provide themselves with water has been excessive, and that they have been pursued by cholera to the very battle-field, I do not go beyond the truth in declaring that they merit the highest commendation.

In the ardour of attack they forgot all they had endured, and displayed that high courage, that gallant spirit, for which the British soldier is ever distinguished ; and under the heaviest fire they maintained the same determination to conquer, as they had exhibited before they went into action. I should be wanting in my duty, my Lord Duke, if I did not express to your Grace, in the most earnest manner, my deep feeling of gratitude to the officers and men of the Royal Navy for the invaluable assistance they afforded the Army upon this, as on every occasion, where it could be brought to bear upon our operations.

They watched the progress of the day with the most intense anxiety ; and as the best way of evincing their participation in our success, and their sympathy in the sufferings of the wounded, they never ceased, from the close of the battle till we left the ground this morning, to provide for the sick and wounded, and to carry them down to the beach, a labour in which some of the officers even volunteered to participate, an act which I shall never cease to recollect with the warmest thankfulness.

I mention no names, fearing I might omit some who ought to be spoken of ; but none who were associated with us, spared any exertion they could apply to so sacred a duty.

Sir Edmond Lyons, who had charge of the whole, was, as always, most prominent in rendering assistance, and providing for emergencies.

I enclose the return of killed and wounded. It is, I lament to say, very large; but I hope, all circumstances considered, that it will be felt that no life was unnecessarily exposed, and that such an advantage could not be achieved without a considerable sacrifice.

I cannot venture to estimate the amount of the Russian loss. I believe it to have been great, and such is the report in the country.

The number of prisoners who are not hurt is small; but the wounded amount to 800 or 900. Two General Officers, Major Generals Karganoff and Shokanoff fell into our hands. The former is very badly wounded.

I will not attempt to describe the movements of the French Army; that will be done by an abler hand; but it is due to them to say that their operations were eminently successful, and that under the guidance of their distinguished commander, Marshal St Arnaud, they manifested the utmost gallantry, the greatest ardour for the attack, and the high military qualities for which they are so famed.

This despatch will be delivered to your Grace by Major Lord Burghersh, who is capable of affording you the fullest information, and whom I beg to recommend to your especial notice.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

P. S.—I enclose a sketch of the field of battle.
His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
